*"May the God of hope fill you with all joy and peace as you trust in Him, so that you may overflow with hope by the power of the Holy Spirit."
— Romans 15:13*

Congratulations, Class of 2011

100 percent of graduates choose higher education

As family and friends gathered for Seattle Christian's 58th commencement ceremony on Sunday, June 5, red and white tassels proudly represented the 50 seniors whose accomplishments and successes at SCS will remain treasured memories. An inspirational commencement address, focusing on service above self, was delivered by Bible teacher and ASB Advisor, Dan Edmondson. Students humbly shared how faith and personal commitment to the Lord will guide them in their journey ahead.

The Miracle of Life

Kindergarten Science Unit Reveals God's Power

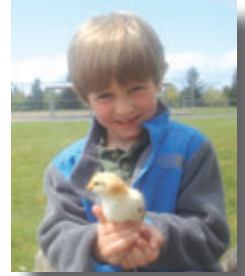

Who would have believed that "chicks" were coming to the kindergarten classroom at SCS? As one of the most exciting and educational science units to be studied closely and oh so carefully, students were able to see firsthand God's awesome power to create the miracle of life.

Studying unhatched eggs, they looked at life cycles in the animal kingdom, discovered the stages of development a chick goes through as it readies for birth, and even journaled the day-to-day activities as students had many questions such as, "Do all eggs hatch?" Vocabulary and reading opportunities were important to implement in the unit as students read 15 non-fiction books about chicks and hatching.

They were able to learn about habitats, food and the cycle of life, presenting their findings at the end of the experiment.

Overall, students were amazed at the process and developed a new excitement for what God does through the creation of life.

Elementary Field Day on June 7 proved to be an exciting and fun-filled day for K-6 students

Message from the Superintendent

"May the God of hope fill you as you trust in Him so that you may overflow with hope by the power of the Holy Spirit." Romans 15:13

It's hard to believe that families are well into their summer plans and vacations, as campus staff and facilities personnel are already preparing for the upcoming school year. Thank you for a wonderful 2010-11 year as God has continued to provide for our every need. We have seen His light truly shine in the lives of our students through service projects, student-led chapel activities, academics, fine arts and athletics. Parents, thank you for investing in the lives of your children through Christian education.

Highlights to share:

The June 5 Commencement ceremony, honoring the SCS Class of 2011, was such a meaningful time of reflection and promise as our graduates look to the future. As noted on the front page, scholarships collectively offered were nearly 5.5 million, along with the following notable recognitions:

- Three seniors received national recognition for their academic achievement.
- One senior was recognized as a Washington State Scholar.
- Two seniors received full-ride scholarships (academic and athletic).
- Five seniors were accepted into competitive academic honors programs at their respective colleges.
- Four seniors were accepted directly into competitive major programs.
- Four seniors have signed with university athletic programs in soccer, basketball and track.

These are exceptional achievements for our class of 50 students. We pray the Lord's blessing on each graduate as they leave SCS and begin the next chapter of their life.

Also noted on the front page, spring sports teams ended with a strong finish to the 2011 season. Congratulations to all SCS athletes for your amazing dedication and hard work. Seattle Christian is eager to begin the annual Warrior/Eagle football season in partnership with Life Christian Academy. Eleven SCS players have joined the roster for this fall and anticipate a competitive season. Be watching the main school calendar for game times and locations this fall, and I look forward to seeing many of you at an upcoming game.

Dr. Giardino, Elementary Principal, is pleased to announce that several enhancements to the K-6 program will take place this fall. The expansion of the SCS science and art programs will allow for more hands-on learning opportunities available for students. The kindergarten curriculum will continue a hands-on focus to reading, with the goal of all students leaving kindergarten as readers. The end-of-year "Chick Unit", new to SCS, also gives students a more active approach to their science units. Barnabas Chapel groups have been significant opportunities for spiritual growth and student leadership this year. The student support program will now offer families state-of-the-art student assistance for their child in reading and math. Finally, elementary students will now be able to eat lunch in the auditorium instead of classrooms.

As the Board of Trustees and administration seek the Lord's direction for the coming year, we covet your prayers. Seattle Christian's commitment to partner with home and church enables us to work together to raise up godly young men and women so they may impact their world for Christ. We are privileged to educate your children and are truly "Overflowing with Hope" and joy in the work He is doing within our staff, administration and student body.

Serving faithfully,

Gloria Hunter
Superintendent

Student Recognition

Washington State Scholar

Congratulations to senior Abbie Barronian, who has been chosen as a Washington State Scholar! This program recognizes the accomplishments of three high school students in each of the state's 49 legislative districts. Abbie is among the most exemplary high school students in the state of Washington as identified by the Higher Education Coordinating Board. Abbie will be attending Northwestern University, Medill School of Journalism, this fall.

Sarah Harper

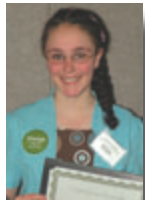

Melanie Johnson

Catie Shelton

Congratulations to juniors Sarah Harper (Science), Melanie Johnson (Technology) and Catie Shelton (Math), who were honored for their scholastic achievements in these disciplines by the American Association of University Women's (AAUW) Scholars Recognition Program. They received their award at a special reception on May 5.

Congratulations to Stephanie Lindblom for her first place award in the Holocaust Center's Writing and Art Contest. Stephanie's submission was one of 800 entries sent to the Washington State Holocaust Education Resource Center. She focused her essay on comparing today's issues of bullying with the Holocaust. She was recognized on June 26 at a special brunch in Seattle. MS history teacher, Karla Tripoli, also attended as she was the sponsoring teacher. Stephanie was also awarded a $100 gift card to Amazon.com. Seattle Christian applauds your writing efforts, Stephanie!

Fulfilling a Dream

By Tanya (Smith) Goodrich,
Class of 1979

My dream started at a very young age: I wanted to be a missionary to Africa. The Lord is so good; I was able to fulfill that dream a couple of years ago.

This year was our third project in Uganda. Our initial trip involved serving orphans and former child soldiers in Kitgum, Northern Uganda. It was followed the next year with construction of a school and digging of a well for children in Namayumba. Our efforts have been made possible through generous donations from friends, family and local churches.

This past January, with God's help, our family's humanitarian organization, Reaching Out With Hope, opened a free medical clinic in Luwero, Uganda. The clinic serves villages in the Central Uganda area known as the Luwero Triangle, an area still suffering from the ravages of a civil war in the 1980's when an estimated 700,000 people lost their lives.

We had witnessed disease and poor health conditions, things that could be easily treated with proper medication. My vision became to work to improve the conditions of women and children.

Our fundraising efforts for the latest project were focused on building a clinic for the community and creating a way for the women of Bukuma village to earn an income for their family.

God provided once again, and there is now a free clinic staffed by a nurse, and a growing pig farm where the women are working their way out of poverty.

I believe that you are never too young or too old to do God's will in serving Him...I'm a prime example.

God is Good...All the Time...

By Luke Crook, Class of '93

I attended Seattle Christian High School for three years in the early '90's, graduating with the awesome class of 1993. God blessed me through SCS in many ways – the great teachers and staff, the Christian education with an emphasis on missions, the safe environment to try out student leadership, and the good friends made there. But the biggest blessing coming from SCS was the introduction to my wife.

It was a fall October day in 1990 and I had been at SCS for at least 5 or 6 weeks. That day a tall, beautiful co-ed classmate ran across the soccer field to introduce herself. Her name was Terri Smith (now Terri Crook), and she wanted to ask me about a test. My generation might remember how Mrs. Lindgren used to post test scores (by id number, not by name) on her class door. Terri wanted to know if I was the student who had rocked the geometry examination. Thankfully I had, and thus we met.

Six years later God was good enough to let me marry that girl; now fifteen years later we are still happily married. Of course, lots happened in those fifteen years. We've lived in over a half dozen cities,

Expressing God's Love through Media

By Marty Lange, Class of 1983

Walking with Jesus is a daily adventure for the Lange family. Living a life of faith can be scary at times, but God takes great delight in stretching our faith and showing us that we can depend on Him. There is no promise of being comfortable in the Scriptures, but only the promise that the Comforter is always with us.

I have known since I was 15 years old that God wanted me to serve Him in full-time ministry. I spent a year in 1984 working alongside missionaries in France and Spain. It was at that time God showed me that media was a powerful tool in sharing the message of God's love.

After earning my degree in Communications from Biola University, I joined Wycliffe Bible Translators in 1991. While visiting a remote village near Oaxaca, Mexico I knew I wanted to dedicate my life to helping minority people groups have access to God's Word. I also noted how few resources they had access to in a language that they could understand and decided to do whatever I could do to change that.

Since then I have moved to a training/mentoring role, working alongside indigenous people to help them produce audiovisual media that is Scripture-based, culturally relevant and in minority languages. For the last eight years, my family and I have lived in Peru and focused our efforts on training Quechua people how to produce radio programs and videos that deal with health, marriage, and children's issues, all from a Biblical perspective.

We are now based in Orlando, Florida and I am serving as the vernacular media training coordinator for Latin America. We are developing a comprehensive training for Latin Americans who want to produce audiovisual media in minority languages, and training them to train others.

My greatest joy in the work is giving people a vision for what they can do, train them how to do it, and then get out of their way so they can pursue the vision God has given them.

“I know I can trust His good heart, and for this I am thankful” often moving to continue our education. Terri graduated from Seattle University in Nursing (she still works in that field), and I finished my undergrad at Multnomah Bible College in Portland. I've almost always worked with students, both as a middle school history teacher and as a youth pastor.

Currently God has brought us to Northbrook, Illinois, a northern suburb of Chicago. I serve as a youth pastor and am being ordained with a Presbyterian denomination. Terri and I have two beautiful young girls. Life has brought difficulty along with joy. Mostly, though, Terri and I are just two people filled with gratitude for God's goodness. He is our all-wise Heavenly Father, knowing perfectly what is good for us. He is our all-powerful Almighty God, fully able to do us the good that He knows. And He is our loving Savior who wants to do this good because His heart is fully for us. Certainly I don't always "get" what God does or allows in this complex world, but I know I can trust His good heart, and for this I am thankful. All the time... God is good.
